

Jeremy M. Roehr

AIA NCARB
ASSOCIATE PRINCIPAL
STUDIO DIRECTOR

Jeremy joined GFF in May 2011 after earning his Master of Architecture from The University of Kansas School of Architecture and Design. He was named an Associate Principal in 2021 and serves as the Studio Director for GFF's team focused on K-12 and higher education. He is also an important member of GFF's Recruiting Team helping to identify talent for the firm.

Throughout his time at GFF, Jeremy has been focused solely on institutional projects such as K-12, higher education, religious education buildings, and worship spaces from initial schematic design and planning through construction administration. Jeremy's interest and experience lies in projects with complex programs and his critical thinking skills have proven to help preserve the client's vision and ensure the success of the project.
